EXTRA. 2 O'CLOCK. HORRORS OF A PEST-HOLE.

Little Care Taken of Sufferers on North Brother Island.

President Wilson Orders a Report on "The World's" Charges.

Reporters of The World made a visit to North Brother Island, where patients suffering from typhus fever, small-pox, scarlet fever and other contagious diseases are isolated, and discovered that these poor unfortunate are most neglected.

Just now the typhus pavilions are crowded to overflowing, the number of cases taken to the island since Feb. 11 having been 153. There are now 82 typhus patients at North Brother Island, besides 40 suspects who are quarantined there.

Seven of the eight pavilions on the island are not apart for the victims of this dreaded disease. The World's reporters went into those pavilions one after another. The patients appealed pitifully to the visitors for water or assistance.

One attendant was found who had thirty-two typhus patients to care for, and he acknowledged that it was more than enough work for him. Several of the typhus patients in one of the most crowded of the pavilions were tied to their cots, and lay there growing sicker in their agony.

The windows of the pavilions are kept wide open all the time, and the cold, raw wind, laden with mist and fog, blows right in upon the sufferers. Very few of the cots are provided with mattresses, and patients lie upon the canvas stretchers with only a thin blanket over them.

In the pavilions set apart for convalescents and the quarantined suspects there was no supervision or care on the part of the physicians, and the people were allowed to do as they pleased. In several instances, it was said by an attendant, food had been taken out among the suspects which had not been discovered till two or three days afterwards, when the victims were suffering from raging fever and delirium.

No precautions whatever seemed to be taken to prevent the spread of the disease among the quarantined persons and those suffering from other maladies. The attendants of all the different pavilions take their meals together, typhus attendants mingling with those from the small-pox, scarlet fever and measles wards.

In some of the quarantine tents for typhus patients the reporters found there were not beds and cots enough to go around. The unfortunate were obliged to sleep upon chairs and benches.

When a death occurs the attendant who happens to discover it summons some of the convalescent patients, who carry away the body to be buried in the island. The attendants of the typhus patients were confined to the cots were packed so closely together that patients could roll from one cot to another, and cries for water were heard on every side.

The pavilions at North Brother Island are under the control of the United States Marine Corps. Dr. F. R. Perival is in immediate charge of them. He has one assistant, and there are a number of male and female attendants. These make up the staff at North Brother Island.

Members of the Board of Health seldom visit this pest spot, and Dr. Cyrus Edson, who is chief of the Bureau of Contagious Diseases, does not hold his office in the island. After they have been sent to the island, it is completely isolated from public view and investigation, and outsiders are never permitted to land there.

The World's reporters, who made the investigations described, passed the guard at midnight and personally witnessed all that they related.

President Wilson, of the Board of Health, read the report of The World's reporters in the morning and sent a dispatch to Dr. Perival ordering him to read the article in The World and at the same time to take the necessary steps to prevent the spread of the disease.

POINTERS ON THE RACES. Horses Entered for the Contest at North Bergen To-Day.

Bullarat and Glitter II. to Try Conclusions in a Short Dash.

There is nothing attractive about the card at Guttenberg to-day. The fields in each race are light, and the quality very poor. Some-times, however, the poorest programmes furnish the most exciting races, and this may be the case to-day.

The meeting between those two speedy sprinters, Bullarat and Glitter II., in the fourth race and between Jay F. Dee, Xenophon, Perito and Innovation in the third may furnish interesting races. The track will be heavy.

The entries and selections are as follows: First Race—Purse $400; 10 fms. the below the weather. 1. Bullarat 110. 2. Glitter II. 110. 3. Xenophon 110. 4. Perito 110. 5. Innovation 110. 6. Jay F. Dee 110. 7. Xenophon 110. 8. Perito 110. 9. Innovation 110. 10. Jay F. Dee 110.

SEEMS TO PLEASE EVERY ONE. "The World's" Index of Real Estate a Success.

Readers No More Pleased than Owners and Agents.

The man who doesn't insist on getting the most for his money is a poor business man. The man who doesn't see that his money goes furthest when used in The World's Real Estate Index has not examined the system or its workings.

In a single line two columns wide, is placed the announcement of "Houses for Sale or to Let," "Rooms and Apartments to Let," each carefully classified as to location, a glance showing the desirable houses in desirable localities. The price for houses for sale in this index is but 50 cents per insertion, and for rooms, houses, or apartments, 10 to 40 cents per insertion.

For this price a house is placed in the list equally conspicuous with every other house in the locality. There can be no special position, no special type and no special price. The system is absolutely fair.

This is the time of year when the "For Sale" and "To Let" are eagerly scanned for the best men in the party, who will be interested in that portion of the paper as country people are in the marriages and deaths in their local weeklies. It is natural that the seekers for this class of reading should aim to get the most information in the least space. This being the case, they turn to The World's Real Estate Index as being their friend and ally.

It has been charged that Mr. Robinson was elected Mayor, defeating Senator Hill. It is true, but the financial assistance of the Cooper Union Democrats, and that he expected to make his money by organizing the anti-Hill Democratic of Chemung County.

DEATH'S PATRONAGE COMMITTEE. Gustav A. Schumann, the new Republican leader in the Eighth Assembly District, does not propose to do without a patronage committee. He has secured the appointment of a patronage committee of three by the vote of the district committee, which is invested with supreme power by the constitution provided for Republican district organizations.

Brooklyn smiles and declares that his committee is constitutional, while Schumann smiles and says it doesn't count when it interferes with his personal interests.

POLITICAL Gossip. Samuel Fessenden, member of the Republican National Committee for Connecticut, is in the city. He is expected to be elected to the Senate by the vote of the Connecticut Republicans.

HOPE FOR A BIG CONVENTION. Anti-Hill Democrats Expect a Popular Indorsement.

Brooklyn-Schumann Fight for Patronage in "de Ate."

The boomers of a bolting Democratic Convention for May 1 at Syracuse are working with a will to make that gathering a success, and they are being assisted in their efforts by some practical politicians who expect to prevent the more reformers in the movement from capturing all the honors or making a failure of it.

The work of organizing the anti-Hill Democrats of the State is going bravely on, and favorable reports are said to be coming in to the headquarters from all sections of the party, that Genesee, Orleans and Livingston Counties will respond to the call for the Syracuse Convention with delegations consisting of the best men in the party, who will be backed by a majority of the Democrats in those political divisions of the State.

It is said, however, that the anti-Hill organization in Chemung County and a delegation from there to the Syracuse Convention. Mayor-elect David C. Robinson, of Elmira, was in the city to-day for the purpose of consulting with the leaders of the movement on this subject.

LOOK FOR A FREEZER. Forecaster Dunn Predicts a Big Cold Wave.

Forty Degrees Colder, with Snow and Slush.

A Real Blizzard Stationary Through-out Minnesota.

A cold wave, beginning with rain, which will turn into snow and slush and ending with a drop of forty degrees in temperature, is the sort of weather Forecaster Dunn has in store for New Yorkers.

To-night there will be rain and snow and a fall from 45 to 15 degrees in temperature, Mr. Dunn says. To-morrow it will be colder still and it will continue freezing Saturday and Sunday.

Notwithstanding this cold and cheerless outlook, Mr. Dunn thought New York was a favored spot to-day. There was all kinds of disagreeable weather east of the Rocky mountains, and the only locality that escaped the storm was a small strip of land along the Atlantic coast in this vicinity.

"But we'll get our share yet," sighed Mr. Dunn.

A blizzard is raging in the West, and it is cold enough in Montana and Minnesota to make icebergs shiver. The storm was central from Lake Michigan to Virginia.

There was rain and snow from the Mississippi valley to Pennsylvania, and the weather has been whistling through that region and the Ohio valley at the rate of fifty miles an hour.

The area of high pressure has extended rapidly southward over the Mississippi valley and the eastern slope of the Rocky mountains, the barometer having risen over that section during the past twenty-four hours from five tenths of an inch to one inch.

The temperature has fallen from 80 degrees to 30 degrees in the Upper Mississippi Valley, and from Ohio southward to Texas, and it is near zero in Iowa and from 10 degrees to 20 degrees below zero in Northern Minnesota.

The weather continues in the Gulf States and generally to the west of the Mississippi. The indications are that colder and generally fair weather will prevail in the Gulf and South Atlantic States on Friday, with brisk and high northerly winds, and warmer, fair weather will prevail in the Northwest.

PRETTY LIZZIE WOULD HELP. NEW EAST RIVER BRIDGES.

She Sold Papers with Her Mother to Support the Family.

Pretty fourteen-year-old Lizzie Leppow and her mother, Mrs. Rose Leppow, were prisoners before Justice McMahon, in the Tombs Court, this morning.

Mrs. Leppow is the German news-woman who sells newspapers at the City Hall station, and was charged by Agent Barker, of the Children's Society, with violating the law in regard to employment of children under sixteen years of age.

Agent Barker testified that he arrested Lizzie at 10 o'clock last night while she was selling papers. The mother naturally interfered, and he locked her up, too. He had no charges to make against the character or behavior of either mother or daughter, only he considered it highly improper for the latter to be on the streets at that hour.

Through her son, a bright lad of sixteen, Mrs. Leppow, who does not speak English, said that she did not know it was against the law to permit Lizzie to sell papers, but at the same time she would personally rather not have her do it. The family had hard work to live on, and she was anxious to help her mother.

Young Leppow said that the family came to this country from Germany about seven years ago, and settled on a little farm near Boonville, N. Y., which his father bought for $300, paying for it in installments and giving a mortgage to the bank.

He had paid about $180 on the mortgage, when he came to New York to take a more lucrative job in a white lead paint factory, but instead of prosperity the family met with misfortune. The white lead made the father sick, and he is now a helpless invalid.

The Prince and Princess of Wales, with their family, are staying at Compton Place, the Westbourne residence of the Duke of Devonshire.

America Accused of Exaggerating the Behring Sea Difficulty. (By Associated Press.) LONDON, March 10.—The St. James's Gazette (Conservative) to-day accuses the Washington Government of exaggerating the difficulty of arriving at a modus vivendi with Great Britain in regard to the Behring Sea seal fisheries.

The paper suggests that each side go sealing by and by, and that the sealers of each catch, the party found by the arbiters to be in the wrong afterwards paying compensation.

Xeres Anarchists Acquitted by a Military Tribunal. (By Associated Press.) CADIZ, March 10.—The remaining Anarchists charged with participation in the recent attack upon the town of Xeres, who were tried by the court martial that convened in this city yesterday, have been acquitted.

It is said that the acquitted are at the hands of the military tribunal, that they would have done had they been tried in the Criminal Court.
